leading communication
phillip james

www.phillip-james.com

Dear Example

Thank you for submitting your essay to Philip James. Your essay was marked by Alex.

Your results are below:

For Answering the Question you scored A1.

Which means You have not answered the question at all. Your answer does not give an opinion. You tried to give one or two ideas but you did not develop them. Your answer is unfortunely completely unrelated to the question.

For Coherence and Cohesion you scored A2.

Which means You do not answer any part of the question properly. You do not express a clear position. You present few ideas, which are generally not connected to the question

For Lexical Resource you scored B1.

Which means You wrote a short, simple essay . You can summarise, report and give your opinion on factual information and familiar topics with some confidence. Your opinion is often unclear or difficult to identify.

For Grammatical Range and Accuracy you scored B2.

Which means You wrote an essay that develops the argument logically. You highlighted significant points and relevant supporting detail. You wrote an essay which developed the argument, and gave reasons in support of or against a particular point of view. You explained the advantages and disadvantages of an argument. You logical development is not always clear.